Surviving Parenthood: Why is Play So Important for Children?

Parents, have you ever heard that “play is the work of children?” Join us to get a better understanding of why play is so important for young children; what they learn from play and how to provide learning experiences through play at home. We will discover different types, talk about how to play with your child at different ages, and do some playing ourselves. Come ready for discussion and play time!

This training is offered on Thursday, August 26th at 6:30PM at the Smart Start office in Lexington. Limited child care is available; please call (336) 249-6688 to register.
